FROM THE EDITOR'S CHAIR

Greetings golfers, and welcome to the 2017 season! Thanks for picking up this year's edition of the Manitoba Golfer.

It's always great to be back on the tees, fairways and greens after a long Manitoba winter, and hopefully this golf season is a long one. As always, it promises to be busy.

The big focus this year will be on the next generation of golfers. Canada turns 150 years old this year, and Winnipeg is preparing to host the Canada Summer Games as part of the nationwide celebration. Golf will be part of the multi-sport event for the third time, so some of the country's top young golfers will be teeing it up at Southwood Golf and Country Club in mid-August.

The four day tournament will feature team and individual competitions in both the junior men's and junior women's divisions, and Golf Manitoba is doing all it can to produce medal winning performers on its home turf. We have every angle of that story for you in this year's edition.

We also recap what was a pretty good 2016 campaign for the province's top players. Beausejour's Devon Schade won his second straight Nott Autocorp Men's Amateur Championship and men's amateur player of the year honour. Southwood's Rhonda Orr was named the female player of the year for her fine performances in the senior women's division all over North America.

Also in this year's edition we take a closer look at how Manitoba golf courses are doing these days in this era of recreation diversification. Do they have to find alternative revenue streams that have nothing to do with golf? What we found is good news if you're a fan of the game.

There is all of that and so much more in this year's edition, so please give it a read — after, of course, you've tapped in on the 18th green for your career low round.

2016 SCHOLARSHIPS...

The Manitoba Golf Scholarship Fund Inc. in 2016 awarded four scholarships to young golfers who have participated in the Manitoba golf community, demonstrated academic excellence and are pursuing their post-secondary studies at Canadian educational institutions.

Dr. Dwight Parkinson Award

Dallis Dubnicoff, Elmhurst

The Dr. Dwight Parkinson Award was created in 2013. It is a $3,500 scholarship that has been made possible by Mr. Dave Hill of St. Charles recognizing Dr. Parkinson's long time commitment to the game of golf. It is awarded to the student entering their first year of studies at a post-secondary institution with the highest academic standing.

The 2016 recipient was Dallis Dubnicoff of Elmhurst Golf and Country Club. Dubnicoff is at the University of Manitoba and is pursuing a bachelor of commerce degree majoring in accounting. In 2015 he was a member of the Garden City Collegiate golf team.

The following three individuals received $1,500 scholarships from the Manitoba Golf Scholarship Fund:

David Nelson of Southwood Golf and Country Club is pursuing a bachelor of science degree in microbiology at the University of Manitoba and plans to pursue a career in medicine. He tied for 36th at the 2015 Nott Autocorp Men's Amateur Championship and is a member of the Southwood Golf and Country Club Mundie Putter team.

Derek Solman of Elmhurst Golf and Country Club is enrolled in the Asper School of Business at the University of Manitoba, majoring in entrepreneurship and minoring in accounting. In 2015 Solman was a member of the University of Manitoba Bisons golf team, with which he competed in five events. He also finished 43rd in the 2015 Nott Autocorp Men's Amateur Championship.

Steven Young of St. Charles Country Club is working towards a bachelor of science degree with a major in chemistry and physics. Following completion of his bachelor of science, Young plans on entering the faculty of medicine. In 2015 he was a member of the University of Manitoba Bisons golf team and the St. Charles Country Club Mundie Putter team.

About the Manitoba Golf Scholarship Fund (MGSF):

- The MGSF is a registered charity with the goal of providing financial assistance to young golfers pursuing post-secondary education at Canadian institutions
- The annual scholarships are granted based on the interest earned from the fund
- The capital fund grows annually from donations made by individual donations made in honour of someone, and from golf clubs within Manitoba and northwest Ontario making contributions
- Tax receipts are given for donations to the fund
- Golf Manitoba supports the fund administratively, which allows for very little administrative overhead
- The fund began in 1986 and has awarded 172 scholarships for a total of $181,500.

Years of preparation will finally pay off for six young Manitoba and northwestern Ontario golfers this August when the 2017 Canada Summer Games are held in Winnipeg.

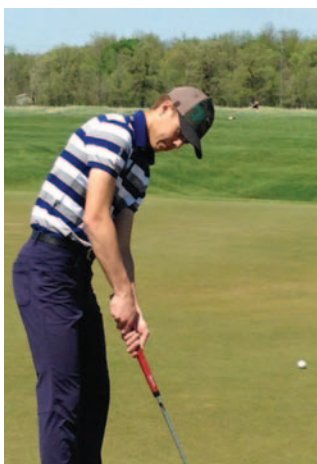

Golf will be part of the massive multi-sport event for the third time, and Manitoba will put boys' and girls' teams in the race for gold medals at Southwood Golf and Country Club. Three boys and three girls will make up the squads, and the competition for spots will be fierce.

"Any time that it's a Games year it's always exciting," says Golf Manitoba director of player development, Garth Goodbrandson, who also serves as head coach of both teams. "The players are looking forward to trying to qualify for the team. It's going to be two months that the qualifying will last for, and I'm sure it'll be a great event."

Thirteen boys and 12 girls are on the training squads that worked all winter in advance of the 10 qualifying rounds that will take place in May, June and July. The competitors will take their best seven rounds, add up the scores, and the top three in both gender groups will make up Manitoba's teams.

The first qualifying rounds will be the Manitoba men's and women's match play events in late May at Minnewasta Golf and Country Club. The final ones will be the junior men's and junior women's championships in early July.

"You can have a throw-away round or two, but it also rewards the players who can shoot a real low score," Goodbrandson says. "By having the qualifying the way we do, I do think we do get our best players for it."

The Canada Summer Games golf event is for those age 18 and under as of Aug. 1, which means both of Mani-toba's defending junior champions — Glenboro's Zach Wytinck and Erickson's Bobbi Uhl — are in the running to represent their province on home soil.

Glenboro's Zach Wytinck is one of the hopefuls to represent Manitoba at the Canada Summer Games this year in Winnipeg.

"We've got a really good crop of juniors," Goodbrandson says. "It's going to be wide open for both the boys and girls, and I think we're gonna have two strong teams. I'm very excited. We've been practising all winter at The Golf Dome, and we've had some different sports science seminars for them. We're just trying to do whatever we can to get them prepared as well as they can."

The boys' and girls' training squads are essentially the same ones that competed for spots on the Western Canada Summer Games teams two years ago, so most of them have experience on their sides as they vie for berths. The fact that the tournament will be at home will make the qualifying experience that much more intense.

"The players just love it," Goodbrandson says. "Whether it's the Manitoba Games, whether it's the Western Canada Games or the Canada Games, there's no doubt it's going to be a week that they'll remember the rest of their lives. They become so close as teammates, which is nice for golf, to have some teammates. There's so many activities, and they meet so many people."

"The fact it's going to be in Winnipeg is just going to make it so much more exciting for them and have different people supporting them and coming out to watch them. It's going to be a really exciting time."

As Goodbrandson mentioned, the training squads worked out at The Golf Dome during Manitoba's long winter and learned high level training techniques through Sport Manitoba. The junior women's training squad will compete in the Nassau women's interclub league, while the junior men will take part in the Mundie Putter loop against some of the province's top men's amateurs.

Manitoba's junior men's team placed sixth at the 2013 Canada Summer Games in Sherbrooke, Que., while the junior women's squad ended up in seventh spot.

Both will be looking for better showings in front of family and friends at home this summer.

2017 CANADA SUMMER GAMES GOLF TOURNAMENT

at Southwood Golf and Country Club, Aug. 8-11

TEAMS

Each province and territory may enter up to three male athletes and three female athletes per event. They must be under 19 years of age as of Aug. 1, 2017.

EVENTS

Team Competition – 72 hole stroke play
Individual Competition – 72 hole stroke play

FORMAT

The draw for rounds one and two will be random. Play will be in threesomes at 10-minute intervals. Team members will play one after another, but each group will be made up of players from different provinces and territories.

Team ranking will be determined following the first two rounds, with round three tee times being adjusted based on score. The leading teams will tee off last. Ties in team rankings used for pairing teams after the second round will be based on when their scores were posted for that round. If two teams are tied with the same scores, the team that posted the score first during the second round gets the higher position. For example, if Manitoba posted a team total of 288 and teed off at 7:30, it would finish higher than New Brunswick, which also finished at 288 but teed off at 7:48.

Team ranking will be determined following the third round, with round four tee times being adjusted based on score. The leading teams will tee off last.

ST. CHARLES COUNTRY CLUB

*“Wishing all
Manitoba Golfers
a Great Season!”*

It's no surprise that Southwood Golf and Country Club will host the golf tournament for the Canada Summer Games this August.

The relatively new track just south of Winnipeg has been stepping up and hosting national events since it cut the ribbon on the Thomas McBroom design in 2011.

"We like doing our part," Southwood general manager and COO Jeff Scott says. "The club has a long history of just giving back to golf and trying to grow the game, so we try and do our part to help out and host tournaments. We want to showcase the club but also provide a tournament venue for some of these prestigious events."

Southwood hosted the 2014 Canadian University/College Championship and later that year was the co-host for the Canadian men's amateur. Now it will entertain the country's top junior players.

"Growing the game is part of it," Scott says, "so having juniors here, the membership has really rallied behind that."

Southwood member Gordon Hudson was a driving organizational force behind the university/college and men's amateur championships, and he will serve as the chair of the Summer Games tournament as well. He said it's all part of getting Southwood on the national and even international golf scene.

"The flag was waved pretty good for the university and college championship as well as the Canadian am," Hudson says. "We've hosted the Players Cup qualifier a couple of times, and obviously with this (new) Southwood (course) it's great to put it on the map.

"So far I've heard nothing but positive things about the course. I mean, we're still growing in. We're still young. There's still room for improvement. We learn from each one of these tournaments we put on in how we can improve in that area. To have national events at the club and now the Games, which is huge, your name gets recognized."

Southwood is able to host a wide variety of events because of how it was constructed. It can challenge the top amateurs in the world at more than 7,300 yards or play as short as 5,300 yards to give all levels of golfers a chance to break par.

"We had Special Olympics here last year for a Manitoba qualifier," Scott says. "We can set up the golf course for them. We can set it up for the Canadian amateur, for the best amateur golfers in North America and everything in between. The golf course is built to be a championship calibre golf course."

While that allows nearly any national championship to be held at the course, it also has the potential to upset the membership, which pays good money to always have the course at their disposal during Manitoba's short summer. So far, the members seem to be buying into the pride that comes with hosting prestigious events.

"We have a great crew of volunteers that really, really help out immensely," Hudson says. "You couldn't do it without the Southwood membership, that's for sure, because they are 99 percent of the volunteers."

The good news about the Canada Summer Games golf tournament is only 69 players are slated to participate and they will go off both tees, so Southwood members will be able to play before or after the Games competitors.

"There obviously will be a buffer so we don't in any way impact the Games," Hudson says.

Unlike many of the other Canada Summer Games sports, admission to watch the golf tournament, which is slated for Aug. 8-11, will be free.

ENVIRONMENTAL BENEFITS OF TURFGRASS

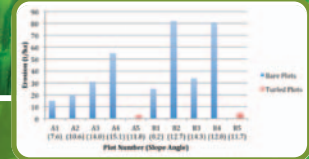

TURFGRASS REDUCES RUNOFF

Turfgrasses slow down the speed and reduce the force of flowing water, allowing more of it to be absorbed in the soil to the benefit of groundwater reserves. Also, any sediment that has also been picked up by the water is invariably trapped within the stand of turfgrass. This prevents many of the pollutants and other chemicals that rainwater gathers from ending up back in our water system; instead they go in the soil where they can be broken down safely.

TURFGRASS PREVENTS EROSION

The fibrous root system that turfgrass forms binds the soil together preventing it from being carried off by rains and wind. The blades of grass or canopy, also slow down rainwater dramatically reducing the amount of soil being carried off by the force of the water. With soil erosion becoming an increasing problem, turfgrasses can play a vital role in reducing losses of high quality topsoils.

TURFGRASS REPLENISHES AIR

Plants take up carbon dioxide and release oxygen into the atmosphere (air) and grass is no exception. The amount of oxygen that a 15 x 15m lawn produces can support 4 people for the entire year. The average 18 hole golf course has been studied and is known to produce enough oxygen for 10,000 people! Well managed turfgrass also helps reduce pollen production by preventing the growth of weedy species which produce significant amounts of airborne pollen. Dust and other airborne allergens are also prone to getting trapped within stands of turfgrass.

TURFGRASS PROMOTES SAFETY

Healthy turfgrass serves as a barrier to fire damage and is capable of preventing large fires from spreading out of control. Well maintained lawns also deter insect pests from invading and creating their habitat and rodent pests are typically deterred from crossing large areas of turf. Turfgrass is also a soft surface for recreational purposes. It is important for a variety of sports as statistics indicate injuries are reduced when compared with artificial surfaces. Natural turf also offers a safe, resilient surface for children, many of which are prone to injuring themselves while playing.

TURFGRASS REGULATES TEMPERATURE

The process of transpiration has a cooling effect that lowers the temperature of the air around the turfgrass plant. With the high density of the plants transpiring within a stand of turfgrass, the need for air conditioning can be significantly reduced, conserving energy for other uses. Studies have shown that the amount of heat given off by bare land or poorly maintained turf is substantially more than that of healthy, well maintained stands of turfgrass.

TURFGRASS SUPPORTS BIOREMEDIATION

Pollutants, such as hydrocarbons and heavy metals, often end up in our soil and are detrimental to the health of people, plants and animals. These substances can be broken down by bacteria, fungi and other microorganisms within the soil. Healthy stands of turfgrass possess an extensively fibrous root system, providing both a habitat and energy source for these populations and allowing them to be much more productive than they would in the absence of turfgrass.

TURFGRASS SEQUESTERS CARBON

Stands of healthy turfgrass play an important role in carbon sequestration, or removal of carbon from the atmosphere. During photosynthesis, carbon dioxide is converted into plant biomass allowing for long-term storage of carbon below ground within roots. Where grassland systems differ from other ecosystems is that the ratio below-ground biomass to above-ground biomass is relatively large. Since turfgrass is an undisturbed and highly productive system, it has the ability to sequester a large amount of carbon with studies showing that a hectare of golf course turf is capable of sequestering 1 tonne of carbon into the soil per year for 30 years. As this sequestration occurs primarily in the soil it is a more stable form of carbon storage than with above-ground plant biomass.

DEVON SCHADE NAMED MANITOBA MALE GOLFER OF THE YEAR

The countdown is on until Devon Schade turns pro.

The rest of Manitoba's amateur golfers probably can't wait.

The 21-year-old Beausejour product won his second straight Nott Autocorp Men's Amateur Championship in 2016 and was named Manitoba's male golfer for a second consecutive year as well.

Schade took a different path to the 2016 Nott Autocorp crown, firing a final round 69 at Minnewasta Golf and Country Club to come from behind and win by three shots over fellow Elmhurst member Zach Sackett. In 2015 Schade shattered the 18-hole record with an 11-under-par 61 at Bridges Golf Course in the second round and was never threatened en route to capturing his first amateur crown.

"It was a little different way of winning, different than holding the lead," Schade says. "I kind of crawled my way back into the tournament and won on the last day, which was pretty awesome. I set out the whole year to repeat, and accomplishing it was really satisfying."

The scary part for the rest of Manitoba's amateur golfers is Schade will compete in at least two more Nott Autocorp championships. He still has a year and a half of school remaining at the University of Manitoba, and he won't be turning pro before then. The last man to win three straight Manitoba amateurs was Todd Fanning, who turned the trick between 1990 and 1992 before turning pro.

"I think there's only a handful of guys that have done it," Schade says, "so that would be pretty amazing to have my name among those people."

In fact, only twice since the tournament was first played in 1922 has anyone won three consecutive Manitoba men's amateurs. Other than Fanning, R.J. Reith did it between 1935 and 1937. Eleven times a player has won back-to-back titles but failed to capture a third, which tells you how difficult the task is.

Schade, a former Manitoba Junior Hockey League player, will turn pro in the spring of 2019, and he is doing everything he can to get his game in shape for his quest to get a Mackenzie Tour card. Schade is fairly unique in that he doesn't have a swing coach or a teacher in general. He and his dad Bruce might have a chat about what needs to improve, and Schade will then get to work.

Pretty simple.

"I just go at it myself and use my natural ability," Schade says. "Don't have many swing thoughts."

These days he is trying to improve his grip, which was too strong and resulted in a nasty hook whenever his swing broke down. When he's not going to school or working at SportChek, he hits The Golf Dome three or four times a week in the winter to stay sharp.

Schade made the cut at the 2016 Canadian amateur in Gatineau, Que., tying for 61st, and he also placed 16th at the prestigious Glencoe Invitational in Calgary. He hopes to play in both of those events again in 2017, and he also has

U.S. amateur qualifying in North Dakota on his calendar.

As for where he'd like to see improvement in 2017, Schade says the goals are simple. The skills are clearly there, so now it's just a matter of polishing them in an effort to make himself unbeatable.

"I'm just working on consistency," Schade says. "Be a little more consistent off the tee. It's kinda where my problem is. I get in a couple tough spots off the tee, but that's about it right now. I'm trying to shoot some lower scores, too."

"From having these last two experiences at the amateur, knowing I can win, it gives me a lot of confidence that I can go out and put up a good score when I need to."

And, as always, his dad will be on the bag for him as he continues his chase towards becoming a touring pro.

"In the summers he is (involved)," Schade says. "In the big tournaments he's always on the bag with me. He enjoys that, and I enjoy him on the bag. So it's a good combination."

The only time there is tension between the two is "when I'm playing bad, maybe," Schade says. Otherwise, pops is there to keep his son's head where it needs to be.

"He's kind of my mental coach," Schade says. "He keeps me calm out there."

RHONDA ORR NAMED MANITOBA FEMALE GOLFER OF THE YEAR

It wouldn't be a stretch to say one bad round last July helped propel Rhonda Orr to Manitoba's female golfer of the year award in 2016.

The Southwood Golf and Country Club member was within striking distance of the lead going into the final round of the Manitoba women's amateur championship at Breezy Bend, but she shot 85 and tumbled to fifth place.

"I was positioned well in the last grouping but putted so poorly all three days," Orr says. "The last day was horrendous putting, I'll put it that way, and I just went back to Tom and said I can't do this anymore."

"Tom" would be Tom Kinsman, the long-time director of instruction at Southwood who put Orr back on track. They focused intensely on the short putt, which was causing most of the trouble. Whatever Kinsman told her worked, because she was on fire for the rest of the summer and was voted Golf Manitoba's second annual female player of the year.

"Being able to believe in that (short putting stroke), because you've put the work in, was huge to being able to continue and play well the rest of the year," Orr says.

The 55-year-old rolled to an easy victory in the Manitoba senior women's championship, taking the title by a whopping 22 strokes at Glendale Golf and Country Club. She then tied for fourth at the Canadian senior women's event in Wolf Creek Golf Resort in Ponoka, Alta., even though she faced a tough mental battle on the fourth and final day. Her niece got married in Winnipeg on the final day of the tournament, and Orr desperately wanted to be there to celebrate. While she missed the ceremony, she was able to fire a final round 76 to tie for fourth and then catch a quick flight home to make it to the reception.

"I had to think a lot about trying to stay focused on not what I was missing but what I was doing and making it worthwhile," Orr says. "If I'm forgoing spending a few days with my family to be here I'm going to make it worthwhile."

Orr also qualified for the U.S. senior women's amateur in Wellesley, Mass., where she admitted the nerves got the best of her and she missed the cut after shooting 89-83. She wouldn't trade the experience for anything, however.

"It was amazing," Orr says. "If anyone has a chance to compete in a U.S. national event, it's just topnotch. It's hard to describe. The nerves came out there for sure. It being my first time was probably a big part of why I missed the cut. You watch the rest of them, and you think: Oh my gosh, they're so good. There's ladies there who have won, like, eight national championships."

"Then you realize after, when looking back, I was hitting balls on the range beside them and I can compete with them. So that's the learning. It is hard to qualify, but I hope once I qualify I'll be able to go there and make the cut."

Orr, who teamed with Faye Zachedniak to win low gross honours at the 2016 alternate shot championship, has a drive to compete like few her age do, and that's thanks to a determined work ethic. She loves practising, and the fire to be the best burns brightly inside her.

"I love it," says Orr, who also tied for the low score at the provincial women's interclub tournament and was a member of Southwood's Nassau League winning team. "I love the friends that I've made. I've always sort of loved to compete at something. Golf is something you can do on your own, and you don't really have to worry about other people so much. I love to practise, to be honest. I think it's just to get away from other things, you know?

"It's also that quest to hit that perfect shot and feel that perfect feeling, and then be able to take that and you draw on that when you go to the course."

The Manitoba Hydro employee doesn't touch her clubs during the winter, which only makes her more fired up to play once golf season arrives each spring. She doesn't participate in the match play championship because she's still getting the rust off her game, but she plans to have another full schedule in 2017.

She has her eye on the Canadian senior women's championship in Newfoundland and Labrador, which is a place she's never been, as well as a return trip to the U.S. national event.

If she can top what she did in 2016, she just might be hoisting the player of the year trophy once again this October. She really loved doing it for the first time last fall.

"It was amazing," Orr says. "If you watch all of the golfers who have won before. Robbie McMillan is a multiple winner. Garth Collings. These people are amazing. Jo-Ann Lindsay. They're just amazing golfers, and to think about having your name on that trophy with them is really incredible."

The Manitoba Golf Hall of Fame and Museum held its 14th annual induction ceremony on Monday, Sept. 19, 2016, at Winnipeg's McPhillips Station Casino.

There were four inductees honoured during this year's event for their accomplishments on and off the golf course: Gord Lenton, Garth Goodbrandson, Mauriel (Bremner) Rogers and Casmir (Kas) Zabowski. Here is a look at their accomplishments:

Gord Lenton (athlete, builder)

Whatever golf has given Lenton in his life, he has more than given back as a player, volunteer and role model.

Lenton was born in Stonewall on June 8, 1927, and took up golf at an early age, joining Selkirk Golf and Country Club in 1939 and moving to Pine Ridge Golf Club in 1952. Lenton has had associations with both clubs, being a member of Selkirk between 1973 and 1993, and of Pine Ridge since 1973. For his many contributions to the game, Lenton was inducted into the Selkirk Golf and Country Club Wall of Fame in 1989.

During the 1959 and 1960 seasons Lenton was the first golf professional at Selkirk. He was reinstated to the amateur ranks in 1964, and the golf accomplishments came quickly. Lenton was the low amateur in the 1965 and 1966 Manitoba Opens.

From 1969 to 1972 Lenton lived in Quebec due to work commitments and was low amateur in the 1971 Quebec Open. He tied for third in the 1972 Quebec men's amateur. Lenton has been a member of both Manitoba (1967) and Quebec (1970) Willingdon Cup teams.

A two time Manitoba senior champion (1982 and 1987), Lenton had an epic battle in the 1982 championship with fellow honoured member Bill Pidlaski at Pine Ridge. On the final day Lenton had 18 consecutive pars to force a playoff, which he promptly won on the first extra hole with a birdie. Lenton was the senior A group winner at the 1982 Canadian senior open championship and tied for second at the 1986 Canadian senior. He was also the Manitoba rural senior men's champion in 1984 and 1985.

Lenton first shot his age (69) in a senior tournament in Carman in 1996 and has done so more than 180 times since then.

Lenton's love of the game also prompted him to volunteer to assist other golfers. He was a Manitoba Golf Association rules official from 1984 to 2001, including a time as head rules official. He was a member of the first course rating team in 1991 and over the course of a decade was involved in rating more than 35 golf courses. He has always given freely of his time to others and was instrumental in teaching the basics of golf to a nine-year-old Glen Hnatiuk at Selkirk Golf and Country Club. Hnatiuk would go on to play on the PGA Tour and himself become an honoured member of the Manitoba Golf Hall of Fame.

Lenton continues to golf with enthusiasm in his 89th year, always with a smile and quick wit.

Garth Goodbrandson (builder)

"Developing champions on and off the course" was the goal of the University of Manitoba golf team when it was co-founded in 1999 by Garth Goodbrandson and Manitoba Golf Hall of Fame honoured member Derek Ingram. This goal is also descriptive of Goodbrandson's entire professional career.

Born in Selkirk in 1960, sports immediately became an important part of Goodbrandson's life. He attended Manitoba Golf Association development camps as a junior, and his talent and passion for golf increased so much that he decided to make golf his profession.

Goodbrandson joined the PGA of Canada in 1982 and served as an assistant professional at Tuxedo Golf Course in Winnipeg from 1982 to 1986. After attaining his class A status, he was the head professional at Halcrow Lake Golf and Country Club in The Pas from 1987 to 1990. Goodbrandson returned to Winnipeg to become associate golf professional at Breezy Bend Country Club in 1991 and then served as the head professional at Minnewasta Golf and Country Club in Morden from 1992 to 1997.

Goodbrandson's professional career direction changed from club professional to golf coaching and leadership when he became the director of player development for Golf Manitoba in 1997, the first full time coach hired by any provincial golf association. In that capacity Goodbrandson, in addition to providing support for the introductory to elite level players, has coached more than 20 provincial teams at national events since 1998 and has been instrumental in establishing ongoing development programs for Canada, Western Canada and Manitoba Summer Games golf teams in the province. He was a member of the Royal Canadian Golf Association coaching team from 2004 through 2007 and has been the tournament director with the Maple Leaf Junior Tour since 2004.

Goodbrandson has coached every University of Manitoba Bisons golf team since 1999, initially with Ingram, and since then with Ed Boge. The University of Manitoba bestowed on him the University of Manitoba coach of the year award in 2012. In 2014 the Bisons men's golf team won the Canadian university championship, which was a remarkable accomplishment given that Manitoba has a small population to draw on and a shorter golf season than some of the perennial powers in Canadian university golf. In recognition of this accomplishment, Goodbrandson was named Canadian university golf coach of the year in 2014 and received the City of Winnipeg Outstanding Achievement Award in the same year. The golf team was a finalist for the 2014 Manitoba Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association team of the year. Despite all these deserved accolades, Goodbrandson is most proud of the quality of the individuals who have made up all of the Bisons teams he has coached.

Goodbrandson has also received multiple recognitions of his professional excellence both within and outside of Manitoba: PGA of Canada / Manitoba Zone Junior Leader of the Year (1999 and 2000) and Professional Development Award (2014); PGA of Canada Junior Leader of the Year (1999); named as a Top 50 Teacher in Canada by National Post (2007); nominated as a Top 100 Teacher by Golf Magazine (2006).

Goodbrandson continues to be the director of player development for Golf Manitoba and head coach of the University of Manitoba Bisons golf team.

Mauriel (Bremner) Rogers (athlete)

When Edith Mauriel Bremner of Ottawa married John Rogers of Winnipeg in the summer of 1929 and they decided to live in Winnipeg, women's golf in Manitoba was about to become home to a new champion golfer. Although they moved back to Ottawa in 1942, she had a lasting impact on women's golf in Manitoba during those 13 years.

Born on August 31, 1903, upon moving to Winnipeg Rogers joined St. Charles Country Club. She immediately had fine competition from club mate and honoured member of the Manitoba Golf Hall of Fame, Isa Bearisto, who won six Manitoba women's amateur titles from 1925 to 1940.

In 1932 and 1938 Rogers won the Manitoba women's amateur championship. She added City and District championships in 1940 and 1942.

In 1937 St. Charles hosted the Canadian Ladies Golf Union Open Championship, which was the predecessor to today's Canadian women's amateur. Rogers won the championship on her home course in decisive fashion, 8 and 7, in the final match. Rogers was the first woman from Manitoba to win the Canadian women's amateur championship.

For her golfing accomplishments Rogers was inducted into the Manitoba Sports Hall of Fame in 2004. She passed away on March 6, 2001.

Casmir (Kas) Zabowski (athlete)

Casmir (Kas) Zabowski was born in Pine Ridge on May 11, 1911. At an early age Zabowski began caddying at Pine Ridge Golf Club, and it was during this time he became proficient at playing golf. In fact, in 1931 at the relatively young age of 20, he became the golf professional at Pine Ridge, a position he held until 1939.

Zabowski was a tremendous competitive golfer. He won three Manitoba Opens (1936, 1938 and 1939) and one Saskatchewan Open (1939). On two occasions he made the cut at the U.S. Open, in 1937 at Cherry Hills and in 1939 at Philadelphia Country Club.

In 1940 Zabowski moved to Halifax to become the golf professional at Ashburn Golf Club. He won the Nova Scotia Open four times (1948, 1949, 1953 and 1954), the Maritimes Open Championship four times (1942, 1946, 1948 and 1949) and the Maritimes PGA three times (1950, 1951 and 1952).

In 2004, Zabowski was inducted into the Manitoba Sports Hall of Fame. Zabowski passed away on Dec. 18, 2000.

The University of Manitoba Bisons men's golf team finished 12th at their most important event on the calendar in 2016, but the rest of the year was full of victories and top five finishes.

The Bisons tied for 12th at the Canadian University/College Championship at Morningstar Golf Club in Parksville, B.C., in early June. As a team the Bisons were 56 over par after three rounds, which was three strokes on the wrong side of the 54 hole cut.

Jack Werhun was the top Bisons player, shooting 76-75-74 for a 9-over-par 225 total. Devon Schade was one stroke back after rounds of 73, 69 and 84. Josh Neufeld (80-78-74), Jeff Bleue (76-83-79) and Noel Ngo (84-82-84) rounded out the Manitoba squad.

"While the team received some great experience and there were lots of positives, we were disappointed with our finish," head coach Garth Goodbrandson said in a press release. "The team really struggled on the front nine this week. We were 43 over par on the front nine and only 13 over on the back nine.

"If we would have played decent on the front nine we would have been in the thick of things for a top five finish."

The Bisons won the Battle at the Falls event in Larchwood, Iowa, in early September. They also had a second place showing at St. John's Fall Invitational in Sauk Centre and Sartell, Minn., as well as three third place finishes during their nine tournament fall schedule.

The Herd also had some strong individual performances in the fall. Schade (74-70-74) and Neufeld (75-71-72) tied for second in the Battle at the Falls tournament, Bobby McNair tied for second at the Jamestown Invitational in Jamestown, N.D., and Schade placed second at the Twin Cities Classic in Ramsey, Minn.

Bisons golfer Josh Neufeld chips the ball during the Twin Cities Classic in Ramsey, Minn., on Sept. 26, 2016.

It won't be only the men competing on the links for the University of Manitoba come the fall of 2017.

The U of M announced last October that it is resurrecting its women's golf program, which began in 2001 but was discontinued in 2011 due to a lack of players.

"We are confident that there will be lots of interested young girls who would like to play on the Bison women's golf team for quite some time," said Garth Goodbrandson, who helped create the U of M golf teams in 2001 and still coaches the men's squad. "In 2012 Golf Manitoba started a program for the Manitoba Games that saw 18 girls who were 15 years old and younger receive training from PGA of Canada / Manitoba Zone professionals throughout the province.

"In 2016 that program continued, and there were 20 young girls participating. The interest and the quality of junior girls golf has improved tremendously in those years."

Bri-ann Tokariwski, a former Bisons player who has won three Manitoba women's amateur titles, will serve as the team's head coach.

The Bisons had five players already committed to the program last fall, including two time Manitoba junior women's champ Veronica Vetesnik.

DEVON SCHADE CLAIMS MEN'S AMATEUR HONOURS

Devon Schade didn't need a career round to defend his Nott Autocorp Men's Amateur Championship crown at Minnewasta Golf and Country Club.

He was simply solid from start to finish.

The Beausejour product, who plays out of Elmhurst Golf and Country Club, fired a final round 69 to come from behind and win his second straight title. Schade shot 73-72-68-69 for a 6-under-par 282 total and a three shot triumph over fellow Elmhurst member Zach Sackett.

Schade cruised to the 2015 men's amateur crown thanks to a course record 61 at Bridges Golf Course, but no such round was required in 2016.

Sackett (73-65-74-73) had a one shot advantage going into the final round, but Schade had taken over the leaderboard's top spot after only four holes thanks to a birdie on the third and a Sackett bogey on the fourth. Schade had the lead the rest of the way, and his only bogey of the day came on No. 17. Breezy Bend's Allan McDonald, who had the lead after Day 1, ended up in third place with a 286 aggregate (70-72-72-72).

Sackett, who plays collegiately for the South Dakota State University Jackrabbits, rocketed to the 36-hole lead thanks to his tournament best 65 on Day 2, and he still had the edge going into the final round despite carding a 74 on Day 3.

Sackett was one stroke up on Schade and two ahead of another Elmhurst golfer, Ryan McMillan, with 18 holes to go. They played together in the final group, and Schade said the mood was light despite what was on the line. McMillan shot a final round 74 and ended up tied for fifth.

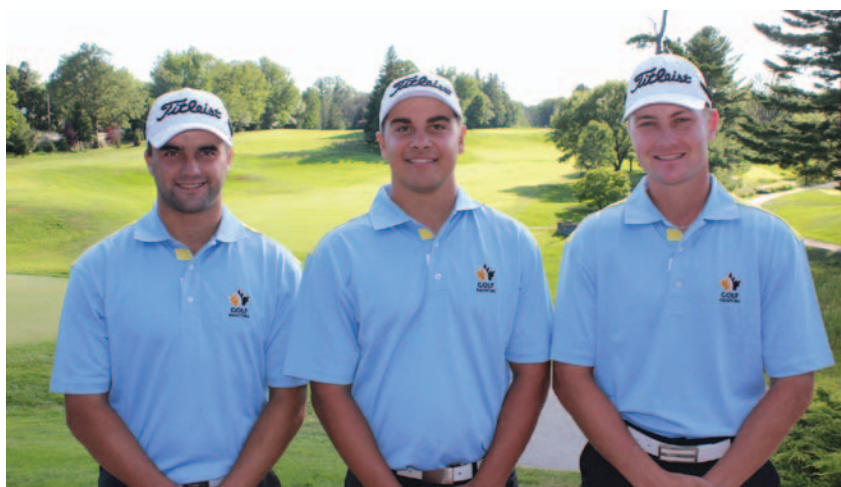

Schade, Sackett and McDonald represented Manitoba at the Canadian men's amateur in Gatineau, Que., and finished seventh among the 11 provinces and territories that took part.

Larters at St. Andrews junior Marco Trstenjak was the top individual Manitoban at the national event, tying for 28th after rounds of 67, 78, 73 and 68 for a 4-over 286 total. Schade (73-72-74-76) also made the cut and tied for 61st.

Nine other Manitobans took part but failed to make the 36-hole cut. They were: Elmhurst's Ryan McMillan (72-77), Selkirk's Travis Fredborg (76-74), Breezy Bend's Justin McDonald (75-77) and Eric Johnson (82-71), Elmhurst's Jack Werhun (75-80), Allan McDonald (76-80), Niverville's Colwyn Abgrall (79-78), Sackett (78-83) and Niakwa's Bret Thompson (81-80).

This year's Nott Autocorp Men's Amateur Championship will be played July 17-20 at Selkirk Golf and Country Club and Elmhurst Golf and Country Club.

BRI-ANN TOKARIWSKI CLAIMS WOMEN'S AMATEUR HONOURS

Bri-ann Tokariwski did what she had to do to fend off a young gun and a former champion at the 2016 women's amateur championship.

Tokariwski captured her third provincial title by four shots over Glendale junior Camryn Roadley and by seven over four time winner Jill Hardy of Niakwa. Tokariwski needed just 226 strokes to tour the Breezy Bend golf course over three days, posting rounds of 72, 79 and 75.

Roadley, playing in the second last group of the day, closed with a 72, but her first two rounds of 77 and 81 left her in the runner-up position. Hardy, who won the tournament in 2001, 2004, 2008 and 2009, opened with a fine 74, but a second round 80 and a 79 on the final day left her in the show position.

Southwood's Rhonda Orr began the final round just three shot back of Tokariwski, but she carded an 85 to tumble out of contention. Niakwa junior Rebecca Kuik was also in the hunt after shooting 78 and 77 in the first two rounds, but a closing 88 left her tied for seventh.

Hardy started the final round three shots back of Tokariwski, and she was down by four after two holes. Hardy might have put a scare in Tokariwski when she eagled the par-4 third hole to cut the deficit to two, but she couldn't build off that momentum and never got any closer.

Tokariwski, who also won the provincials in 2012 and 2013, represented Manitoba at the national championship in Nova Scotia with Roadley and Hardy. The squad placed a solid fourth among the eight provinces, just 16 strokes back of the winners from Quebec.

Roadley tied for 42nd individually but would have been much higher were it not for a final round 82. The North Dakota

State University player shot 72, 71 and 70 in the first three rounds.

Tokariwski (76-79) missed the cut by one shot, and Hardy (80-80), Winnipeg's Hannah Diamond (84-83) and Ste. Anne's Charmaine Mackid were also on the outside looking in.

The 2017 women's amateur championship will be played July 3-5 at Bel Acres Golf and Country Club.

BOBBI UHL CLAIMS WOMEN'S JUNIOR HONOURS

Erickson's Bobbi Uhl in 2016 became the first Westman golfer to claim the Accurate Dorwin junior women's championship since 2006.

Uhl, who plays out of Shilo Country Club, shot 75, 78 and 80 at Portage Golf Club, and Bel Acres Golf and Country Club, going wire-to-wire to capture the title by two strokes over defending champion Camryn Roadley of Glendale. Roadley shot 76-79-80 to end up four shots ahead of third place finisher Alexandra Demko of Whitewater Golf Course, which is in Thunder Bay, Ont.

The last Westman golfer to capture the provincial junior women's crown was Brandon's Kaitlin Troop, who won three straight titles between 2004 and 2006.

Uhl's opening round 75 gave her a one shot edge over Roadley and a two shot cushion over Demko. Niakwa's Rebecca Kuik was also in the hunt after 18 holes thanks to a opening 78.

Uhl and Roadley separated themselves from the pack on Day 2 by shooting 78 and 79, respectively, while Demko and Kuik both carded 83s and ultimately lost too much ground.

Uhl had a two stroke lead going into the final round, and it never got smaller than that. Roadley birdied the last two holes to close the gap, but by then it was too late.

Uhl, Kuik and Pine Ridge's Marissa Naylor, who finished fifth, made up the Manitoba team that participated in the interprovincial competition at the national championship in Nova Scotia. Manitoba placed seventh among the nine provinces.

Kuik was the top Manitoban, tying for 59th thanks to rounds of 80-82-78-88. Winnipeg's Katherine McGlenen was 64th (85-87-75-84), and Naylor finished 66th (86-82-81-86).

Uhl (89-84) and Winnipeg's Brynn Todd (92-81) both missed the individual cut by one stroke.

This year's junior women's championship will be contested July 11-13 at Rossmere Country Club.

ZACH WYTINCK CLAIMS MEN'S JUNIOR HONOURS

Glenboro's Zach Wytinck was able to win a trophy his talented older brother never could get his hands on.

That was the story at the Accurate Dorwin junior men's championship that was contested at Portage Golf Club, and Bel Acres Golf and Country Club in July.

Wytinck's older brother Josh won the 2012 Manitoba men's amateur, but he wasn't able to capture a junior championship before that. Zach showed he has the talent to follow in his big brother's footsteps, winning the Accurate Dorwin junior men's championship by a whopping 10 strokes over St. Charles' Sam Diamond.

Wytinck fired rounds of 71, 69, 75 and 76 for a 291 total.

Diamond had the lead after 18 holes of the four day event thanks to an opening 70, which was one shot better than Wytinck. Everything changed on Day 2 when Wytinck went low with a 69 and Diamond struggled to a 79.

Wytinck extended his lead despite turning in a 75 on Day 3, and he enjoyed an 11 shot cushion over Diamond, Minnewasta's Spencer Norrie and Quarry Oaks' Stefan Lavallee going into the final round.

Lavallee (74-73-79-77) ended up in third place, and defending champ Wesley Hoydalo of Selkirk (76-72-79-77) tied for fourth with Elmhurst's Ryan McMillan (75-75-78-76).

Wytinck, Diamond and Lavallee represented Manitoba at the Canadian championship in St. John's, N.L., and the squad placed eighth in the 10 team interprovincial competition. Hoydalo, who competed as an individual, was the only Manitoban to make the cut, shooting 79-74-79-79 to tie for 66th.

Diamond (80-75), Lavallee (76-80), McMillan (78-79), Wytinck (80-78) and St. Andrews' Colby Dudek (82-82) missed the cut.

The 2017 junior men's championship will be played July 10-13 at Rossmere Country Club.

RHONDA ORR CLAIMS WOMEN'S SENIOR HONOURS

There was never much doubt about who was going to win the Manitoba senior women's championship in 2016.

Southwood's Rhonda Orr put on a clinic from start to finish and ended up winning the three day event at Glen-dale Golf and Country Club by a whopping 22 strokes.

Orr fired rounds of 76, 84 and 77 to finish with a 237 total. That was 22 strokes clear of fellow Southwood member Matty Leung (88-87-84), who wound up one shot ahead of third place finisher Gail Kennedy of St. Charles (86-86-88).

Orr so dominated the field of 24 that she had nearly a double digit lead after the first day. Her 76 was eight shots clear of Niakwa's Tammy Gibson, and she waltzed in from there. Her 84 on Day

2 was the best round of the day, as was her closing 77.

She was that good.

Orr's strong play continued at the Canadian senior women's championship at Wolf Creek Golf Resort in Ponoka, Alta., as she tied for fourth with a 13-over-par total of 229 (79-74-76).

The Manitoba team, which also consisted of Leung and Kennedy, placed fifth among eight teams in the interprovincial competition.

Leung tied for 54th after carding rounds of 80, 86 and 94, while Kennedy placed 66th with 86, 92 and 91.

This year's senior women's championship will be held July 24-26 at St. Boniface Golf Club.

MIKE WALKER CLAIMS MEN'S SENIOR HONOURS

There was a familiar face near the top of the leaderboard at the Manitoba senior men's championship in 2016 at Glendale Golf and Country Club.

Breezy Bend's Garth Collings, who had won two of the previous three senior men's titles, was right there, but it wasn't in the spot he was normally accustomed to occupying. The week actually belonged to St. Boniface's Mike Walker, who played solid golf and cruised comfortably to his first senior men's title.

Walker was a wire-to-wire winner, opening with back-to-back 72s and finishing off his five stroke triumph with a final round 75 and a 219 total. Collings shot 75-75-74 to end up in second, four shots ahead of Niakwa's Ken Warwick (75-79-74) and Pine Ridge's Brad Moore (81-71-76).

Collings never got close to Walker during the final round. Walker parred the first eight holes, while Collings had two birdies, four pars and two bogeys. Walker bogeyed the ninth and had a five shot lead going into the back nine. That ended up being the final margin of victory.

Walker, Collings and Moore represented Manitoba at the Canadian senior men's championship in Niagara Falls, Ont., and the squad posted an impressive second place finish behind Alberta at only 5 over par.

Collings tied for 12th (70-72-81-72), Walker tied for 41st (74-77-77-77), and Moore (77-85) missed the cut. Winnipeg's Barry Minish (79-80) and Ken Warwick (85-80) also missed the 36-hole cut.

This year's senior men's championship will be hosted by Walker's home course of St. Boniface Golf Club July 24-26.

ERIC JOHNSON CLAIMS MID AMATEUR HONOURS

It was a fight to the finish at the 2016 men's mid-amateur championship, and Breezy Bend's Eric Johnson was the last man standing when all was said and done at his home course.

Johnson entered the final round with a one shot lead over club mate Jesse Skelton, and his 73 to close out the tournament ended up being enough for a one shot victory over yet another Breezy Bend player, Bobby Wiebe.

Johnson shot 71-72-73 for a 216 total and captured his first mid-amateur title. Wiebe gave it a good run, closing with a final round 70, but he ended up one stroke shy of a playoff.

St. Charles' Derek East also shot a final round 70 to end up in third spot at 219. Morgan Campbell, who is a member at an Atlanta area golf course, placed fourth after rounds of 70, 78 and 72.

Skelton struggled to a three-over-par 39 on the front nine during the final round to take himself out of contention, but Wiebe, playing in the second last group, got going with a two-under 34 compared to Johnson's 35.

Johnson essentially had a three stroke lead with nine holes to go, and he extended that edge to four with three holes remaining. Johnson, however, double bogeyed the 16th and bogeyed the 17th and 18th to win by one over Wiebe.

Johnson led the Manitoba team into battle at the Canadian men's mid-amateur in Quebec, and was joined by Elmhurst's Ben Bandura, who placed sixth in the provincial tournament, and Brian Katchnoski, who tied for 11th. Manitoba placed fifth among the 10 teams.

Johnson tied for 25th in Quebec thanks to an even-par total of 288 (71-72-76-69), while Skelton tied for 36th (74-70-74-72). Winnipeg's Justin McDonald (tied for 64th) and Katchnoski (69th) also made the cut.

Bandura (79-71) and Hamiota's Chad Facey (74-76) missed the cut by one stroke. Wiebe (77-75), along with Winnipeg's Matt Stephenson (75-80) and Spencer Harris (81-78) also failed to advance.

The 2017 men's mid-amateur championship will be held July 3-5 at Bel Acres Golf and Country Club.

JENNA ROADLEY CLAIMS WOMEN'S MATCH PLAY HONOURS

Everything went according to the seeding in the provincial women's match play tournament.

No. 1 qualifier Jenna Roadley of Glendale edged No. 2 Veronica Vetesnik of Southwood 3 and 1 in the championship match.

There were, in fact, only two upsets among the 11 matches that were played on the women's side of the tournament. Roadley's triumph marked the fourth time in the last six years that the women's medallist went on to hoist the championship trophy.

Roadley, who had just completed her college career at Bradley University in Illinois, beat St. Charles' Hannah Diamond, the ninth seed, 6 and 4 in the quarter-final round and then rolled past Erickson's Bobbi Uhl, who plays out of Shilo, 8 and 7 in the semifinal.

Vetesnik, who is scheduled to be involved in the rebirth of the University of Manitoba Bisons women's golf team in the fall of 2017, upended Niakwa's Tammy Gibson, the seventh seed, 4 and 2 before beating No. 6 Rebecca Kuik of Niakwa 2 up in the other semifinal.

The 2017 women's match play qualifying will take place May 27 and 28 at Minnewasta Golf and Country Club, with the matches slated for Teulon Golf and Country Club, and Niakwa Country Club between June 3 and 10.

TRAVIS FREDBORG CLAIMS MEN'S MATCH PLAY HONOURS

It looked like destiny was going to carry Niverville's Colwyn Abgrall all the way to the provincial men's match play championship in 2016.

Travis Fredborg, however, was having none of that.

Fredborg, a Selkirk native who plays college golf for the University of Nevada Wolf Pack, ended Abgrall's run of upsets in the 36-hole final match at Elmhurst, cruising to a 7 and 6 triumph to capture his first provincial match play title.

The convincing victory capped a strong event for Fredborg, who qualified in second place after rounds of 72 and 71 at Transcona Golf Club. He then went through his opponents like a hot knife through butter, beating Transcona's Sean Hazen 4 and 3, Quarry Oaks' Stefan Lavallee 6 and 5, Niakwa's Jay Doyle 2 up and then Elmhurst's Devon Schade, the defending men's amateur champ, 5 and 4 to reach the final.

Abgrall, who plays collegiately for Arizona's Scottsdale Community College, qualified in 17th spot thanks to rounds of 75 and 77, and he got the upset train rolling with a 4 and 3 win over 16th seed Steven Young of St. Charles. Abgrall then scored the biggest upset anyone can have in a match play event, toppling No. 1 seed Allan McDonald of Breezy Bend on the first extra hole. That victory propelled Abgrall to a win over eighth seed Jordy Lutz of Elmhurst (1 up).

Abgrall was then the higher seed in his semifinal match, which he won 2 and 1 over 28th seed Bobby McNair of Carman to advance to the final against Fredborg, who won back-to-back Manitoba junior men's titles in 2013 and 2014.

This year's men's match play qualifying will take place May 27 and 28 at Minnewasta Golf and Country Club, and the matches will be contested between June 3 and 10 at Teulon Golf and Country Club and at Niakwa Country Club.

BRI-ANN TOKARIWSKI CLAIMS WOMEN'S CITY AND DISTRICT HONOURS

The competition was fierce at the annual women's city and district tournament at Transcona Golf Club, but in the end it was Bri-ann Tokariwski who stood on top of the mountain.

The Elmhurst golfer, who would go on to win her third Manitoba women's amateur a couple weeks later, carded back-to-back rounds of 76 to win the 36-hole event in late June. Tokariwski scored a four shot victory over St. Charles's Hannah Diamond, who fired 77-79.

Tokariwski's one shot lead to start the second and final round became three by the fourth hole, which she birdied and Diamond bogeyed. Diamond never got closer than two shots the rest of the way, because Tokariwski shot 39 on the front nine and cruised from there.

Selkirk's McKyla Poponick wound up in third after posting rounds of 77 and 86, while Steinbach's Charmaine McKid was a stroke back in fourth position thanks to her rounds of 84 and 80.

Four golfers were within four shots of one another at the mid-way point. Tokariwski's opening 76 had her only one shot up on Diamond and Poponick, and four ahead of Niakwa's Tammy Gibson, who ended up in fifth place.

This year's city and district tournament will be played June 24 and 25 at Larters at St. Andrews.

TOM HUMNISKI CLAIMS SENIOR MEN'S MATCH PLAY HONOURS

There's something about match play that makes Tom Humniski extremely dangerous.

The Elmhurst member won the inaugural senior men's match play event in 2015 as the No. 14 seed, and in 2016 he made it two-for-two when he ran the table despite qualifying 11th in the 16 player field.

Humniski topped Southwood's Gordon Hudson, the 13th seed, by a 2 and 1 margin in the 18 hole final at his home course.

Humniski shot 82-81 in his qualifying rounds at Transcona (coincidentally, he shot 81-82 during the 2015 qualifying) to make the cut by 10 shots. Hudson, meanwhile, rebounded in a big way. He struggled to a 93 on Day 1 but improved by 20 strokes on Day 2, shooting a 73 to get into the match play field by eight strokes.

Humniski whipped sixth seed Steve Jones of Elmhurst 6 and 5 in his first match, and then he knocked out Pine Ridge's Ted Antoniuk 1 up in a quarter-final clash. Humniski was actually the higher seed in his semifinal match, and he dispatched No. 15 Manny Schulz of Southwood 4 and 3.

Hudson upset fourth seed Dave Klowak of Transcona 3 and 2 in the first round and then needed the 19th hole to defeat fifth seed Imre Nyiri of Elmhurst in a quarter-final match. That put Hudson into a semifinal tilt against No. 1 seed and three time Manitoba amateur champ Garth Collings, who shot 74-70 to claim the top qualifying spot.

That was no worry for Hudson, who scored a 2 and 1 triumph over Collings to punch his ticket to the final.

The 2017 senior men's match play qualifying will take place May 27 and 28 at Minnewasta Golf and Country Club, with the matches slated for Teulon and Niakwa between June 3 and 10.

Winnipeg's Derek Ingram was hoping for a Canadian to medal as golf returned to the Summer Olympics in 2016, but it was not to be.

Ingram coached the two Canadian men who competed in the golf tournament at the Rio Olympics, and he believed at least one of them had a shot to place in the top three. It didn't work out that way, however, as Graham DeLaet ended up in 20th spot and David Hearn tied for 30th in the field of 60.

Golf was back in the Olympics for the first time since 1904. Great Britain's Justin Rose won gold with a 268 total, followed by Sweden's Henrik Stenson (270) and American Matt Kuchar (271).

DeLaet, who hails from Weyburn, Sask., shot 280 over the four rounds, while Hearn, a Brantford, Ont., native, was three shots back at 283.

ELMHURST GREEN RESTORATION

When Integrative Golf Design started digging around the 16th green at Elmhurst Golf and Country Club last September, it came across a bunker that had been filled in years before, one that could be seen in old aerial photos. "The sand was perfect, and it was a perfect shape," Elmhurst director of golf operations Dave McMillan says. The club, as part of its long-term master plan, restored the 16th and 18th greens to their original Donald Ross look last fall, and the unearthed bunker behind No. 16 is also back in play. Here are a few photos of the restoration process.

GOLF CANADA VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR

Brandon native George McLeod was honoured with Golf Manitoba's Volunteer Distinguished Service Award in 2016, but the honours didn't stop there.

McLeod, who has been part of the provincial golf organization for nearly 40 years, was named one of two recipients of Golf Canada's Volunteer of the Year award in 2016.

McLeod began volunteering in the 1980s as a rural representative of the Wheat City Golf Club for the Manitoba Golf Association, and he was nominated and elected to the MGA's board of directors in 1985.

He spent 20 years on the board and volunteered relentlessly for committees and tournaments. He eventually became president in 2002 and served in that role until 2004. Interestingly, he was the last MGA president and the first boss of the newly named Golf Manitoba.

McLeod was also a driving force behind the incorporation of the Manitoba Golf Hall of Fame and Museum.

Nationally, he served with Golf Canada as Manitoba's class C governor for 10 years. He assisted with the association's amalgamation with the former Canadian Ladies Golf Association and served on numerous committees during his 10 years as a governor. Following Golf Canada's governance change in 2011, he became a member of the association's governors council, served on the membership committee and was chair of the Canadian Turf Grass Research Foundation until 2015.

For more than 30 years McLeod has been a rules official, course rater, starter, scorer and tournament chair for both Golf Manitoba and Golf Canada.

McLeod was honoured along with Bill Klein of Parksville, B.C., at Golf Canada's annual general meeting in Toronto on Feb. 25.

Manitoba courses not venturing too far from the game to make money

When Steve Wood travelled to Vancouver earlier this year to take in the North American Golf Innovation Symposium, his eyes were opened to unique ways in which clubs are trying to attract and keep patrons.

In fact, one California golf course noticed that much of its membership was single, so it conducted a speed dating session on the range. Wood, who is the director of golf operations at St. Boniface Golf Club, could only chuckle at that, because he doesn't think Manitoba golf courses have reached the point where they have think too far outside the box.

"It's pretty eye opening when you see what other people are trying to get into to just get any revenue stream possible," Wood says. "Everything is going to stay golf related. I don't think you're gonna get too many people going outside the realm of golf. I don't think we're there, and I don't think we'll get there."

There are many more options today for people to spend their recreation money on than there was 30 years ago, so golf is trying to stay in the conversation. Wood points out that golf is doing quite well in Canada, thank you very much, as 23.7% of Canucks play golf. And that percentage is the highest mark in the world. Many of those golfers might not be joining clubs, but they're still playing the game.

The Links at Quarry Oaks general manager Randy Sawatzky also believes Manitoba golf courses don't need to venture too far from the game to make money.

PINE RIDGE
GOLF CLUB EST. 1912

Manitoba's Premier Golf Facility

Pine Ridge has set the stage for a spectacular wedding and is ready to make your day everything you have dreamed of. We are confident that our secluded and professionally arranged ceremony site will provide you with the perfect spot to say "I do".

Dates still available for the spring, summer and fall of 2017. If you would like to view our facilities, please contact Tara at 204-222-6477 or email tdueck@pineridgegolfclub.com to book your appointment.

"This doom and gloom of golf being on the downturn is overrated," Sawatzky says. "We do see that there are challenges of trying to compete against other people's time. So whether that would be going to a Jets game or going to Ikea, the disposable income out there has now spread out a lot more than it has in the past."

"So we have to make sure that when we do capture people we make it a fantastic event for them. We're doing so by becoming more inclusive on juniors, on family, making sure that there's opportunities for kids of all ages to participate."

Some courses are adding foot golf or disc golf in an effort to create new revenue streams, but most are simply trying to make golf even more attractive than many already view it to be. Potential additions down the road at St. Boniface, for instance, include a winter golf school and a winter golf league with their simulator.

"We're not going to stray away from the game of golf," Sawatzky says. "At the end of the day golf is our bread and butter. So there are other golf courses that are using their facility to do other things, such as foot golf — and high fives to them — but it's not something that we're going to approach. We'll stick to golf as the game."

This isn't to say Manitoba golf clubs haven't branched out at all. Many of them host weddings and rent out clubhouse space for meetings. St. Boniface really pushes its wedding package throughout the year, and Wood said the club had already booked 70 weddings for 2017 as of mid-March. Restaurants that are open during parts of the off-season are also becoming more prevalent.

"Everybody's looking at different options, because you don't want to ever close the door," Wood says. "And if you have the right mindset you're open to new ideas and try things, but inevitably you're still a golf club. We're a golf club who has a banquet room that we can use for weddings and banquets and functions and conferences and things like that. So we have a good, symbi-otic relationship that we can use both."

Grady Manson, who is director of sales at Bel Acres Golf and Country Club and Clear Lake Golf Course, said his clubs aren't at the point where they have to find extra revenue streams that have little or nothing to do with golf. Both clubs conduct weddings and have the ability to rent space, but that's par for the course these days.

"We're still getting enough golfers each year that we're able to put some money back into the course and make some money," Manson says.

Quarry Oaks got new ownership three years ago, and Sawatzky says the 27-hole layout's future is bright.

"Life is getting better," he says. "We take measured steps. We're not disillusioned by thinking that we're going to change the world in one day. We are slowly getting better, and other courses are as well. It's not rainbows and sunshine, but we're getting there."

"We're doing better every day."

DAVE MCMILLAN

PGA OF CANADA / MANITOBA ZONE PRO OF THE YEAR

Dave McMillan is doing such a great job at Elmhurst Golf and Country Club that he can't go more than a decade without winning the PGA of Canada / Manitoba Zone's professional of the year award.

McMillan, who is Elmhurst's director of golf operations, took home the award in 2016 just nine years after first laying claim to it in 2007.

"It's always a nice honour, because it's your peers and people in the industry that vote on it," McMillan says.

"So it's always kind of nice." Nothing immediately popped into McMillan's mind when asked what specifically may have won him the award this time around. Rather it's his overall body of work that makes him most proud.

"Our business is getting more and more challenging, so running a good business and having your members really enjoying their club is what we pride ourselves on," McMillan says. "The staff I have is great. I had Ivan Koop and Matt Lorenz, two of the top class A guys, in my shop, so that certainly translates into good service for the membership.

"The other thing we really pride ourselves on is running good events for our outside corporate events, for association tournaments and things like that that's becoming a bigger part of our business. We're pretty proud of the job we do of that stuff."

Maintaining the membership level is a tough task these days, let alone increasing it, but McMillan and the rest of the Elmhurst power brokers are doing what they can to remain a healthy organization.

“(Membership) is a struggle to a point,” McMillan says. “We’re pretty steady. We’re not really declining, but we’re pretty flat. We get a few, and we get people leave the game and move away and retire from the game more than anything.”

It used to be that Elmhurst members had to buy a share when they were 30 years old, but now they can wait until they’re 40.

“If they stay at the club for a number of years we give them a credit towards a share,” McMillan says. “So they never would really have to go in their pocket for it. We’re finding that the millennial generation is not big fans of joining. They have no trouble paying and they enjoy golf, but to just join a club to just say you’re a member of a club, it doesn’t have the same cache as maybe it did a generation ago.

“So our challenge is to kind of blend the traditional golfer with the new golfer and have them all enjoy the place equally. We’re trying to be out front and evolve with the times, and we’re really proud of our golf club.”

McMillan is excited for the 2017 campaign at Elmhurst, as it will co-host the Nott Autocorp Men’s Amateur Championship and also debut the greens on Nos. 16 and 18 that last fall were restored to their original Donald Ross form.

DERRIK GOODWIN

PGA OF CANADA / MANITOBA ZONE PLAYER OF THE YEAR

Derrick Goodwin knew he had total control of the situation.

The St. Charles Country Club assistant pro was leading the PGA of Canada / Manitoba Zone player of the year standings going into the final event of the year, the appropriately named Fall Final at Glendale Golf and Country Club on Sept. 1.

So Goodwin didn't need any help in taking the title away from Carman's Dean North, who had won player of the year honours in back-to-back years and in six of the last seven summers.

"I understood going into the last event of the year that if I won it didn't matter what Dean North did; I was able to take the title from him," Goodwin says.

And that's exactly what Goodwin did, firing a 2-under-par 70 to win by one stroke over Winnipeg Winter Club's Rob Guthrie. Goodwin picked up 700 player of the year points and finished with 2,600, which was nearly 300 more points than North collected.

"Through nine holes I heard that Dean was three under on the front but was 5 under through seven holes, and I was two over at the time and didn't feel like I was in a pretty good spot," Goodwin says. "I ended up going four under par on the back nine, which was really great, making an eagle on the seventeenth hole."

The 26-year-old also captured the Titleist Footjoy PGA Championship at Elmhurst in late July, firing 74-71 to win by two strokes over Dave Lavallee of Quarry Oaks. Goodwin placed third at the Fall Championship and was the runner-up to North at the Callaway June Classic. He kicked off the season in style, winning the assistants championship at Quarry Oaks in late May.

"The way I closed, making a birdie on the last hole to win by one, is always pretty memorable and holding that trophy for the first time," says Goodwin, who got his start at St. Charles in the back shop eight years ago.

Goodwin, who is going into his sixth summer as an assistant pro at St. Charles, noted he didn't have a lot of responsibilities during the first few years of his career, which allowed him to work on his game. The old joke is golf pros never have time to play golf, but Goodwin was able to do just that.

"I had the time to get some good fundamentals and a good, solid base down for what I felt I needed to carry for the rest of my career," he says. "In the last couple years I've been getting more involved with different aspects of coaching and the mental side of the game and stuff like that. I haven't spent a whole ton of time actually hitting golf balls and all that, but I spent a little bit of time working on some course strategies and just managing my emotions on the golf course.

"As a junior I had quite a temper on the golf course, and now it's exactly the opposite just because I've learned to control those emotions. That's why I can play pretty good golf on a regular basis, just focusing on the process and each individual shot at hand and understanding how to do that and why."

The field will now be gunning for Goodwin and not North in 2017, but the Winnipeg native is ready to defend his crown.

"I've been working on my game all winter," Goodwin says. "I've been hitting golf balls on a weekly basis (at St. Charles' indoor training centre) all winter, working on my golf swing, and feel that come the summer I'm going to be able to spend more time on my short game.

"I will be focusing all my practice on my short game, because I've had the luxury to practise my long game all winter."

MACKENZIE TOUR NOTES

Stony Mountain's Aaron Cockerill had a strong season on the Mackenzie Tour-PGA Tour Canada in 2016, and he almost earned his Web.com Tour card at the end of the year as well.

Cockerill made it all the way to the final stage of the Web.com Tour, which was played in Florida in December. He ended up with a 3-over-par total of 289 after four rounds, which left him in a tie for 105th place. While getting full status on the Web.com would have been a huge step for Cockerill, he still entered 2017 knowing he had a tour to call home.

Cockerill, who got his Mackenzie Tour card thanks to a 15th place showing at Q school in May, finished 47th on the money list with $14,893 thanks to a pair of top 10 finishes. He tied for eighth at the Staal Foundation Open in July, and he tied for ninth at the season ending Freedom 55 Financial Championship. He was also the lone Manitoban to make the cut at The Players Cup in Winnipeg.

As a result of his strong 2016 season Cockerill has full status north of the border in 2017. The Mackenzie Tour season will kick off June 1 in Vancouver with the Freedom 55 Financial Open.

Winnipeg's Charlie Boyechko and Glenboro's Josh Wytinck both failed to earn their Mackenzie Tour cards at the qualifying tournament in B.C. last May, finishing 94th and 109th, respectively.

NEW BOSS FOR PLAYERS CUP

The Players Cup will go back to Pine Ridge Golf Club in 2017 after its venture into the city of Winnipeg in 2016.

The tournament was played at Niakwa Country Club last year and was won by Dan McCarthy, who graduated to the Web.com Tour after finishing on top of the money list at season's end.

The Players Cup remains arguably the flagship stop on the Mackenzie Tour, and the tournament will undergo a management change at the conclusion of the 2017 event. Marketing Without Borders' Adam Boge will take over from Ryan Hart as the tournament's executive director.

Hart, whose MF1 Marketing group joined the fold in 2010 and brought the Players Cup to new heights, accepted a role with the PGA Tour in early 2017 but will help oversee The Players Cup one final time before handing the reins to Boge.

"We're so proud of what we've been able to accomplish with the Players Cup over the last few years, and we'd like to especially thank the volunteers, sponsors, host courses and so many other people who have contributed to its success," Hart said in a press release. "I'm extremely confident that the tournament will succeed for many years to come."

The tournament will return to Niakwa in 2019, when the event will celebrate its 100th anniversary.

PGA OF CANADA / MANITOBA ZONE NEWS AND NOTES

A pair of Manitobans teed it up at the PGA Championship of Canada on Vancouver Island last June, but both failed to qualify for the match play portion of the tournament.

Glendale's Andrew Steep (79-73) and Assiniboine's Glen Mills (85-72) didn't crack the top 16 who moved on to the matches following 36 qualifying holes at Victoria Golf Club.

Thunder Bay's Walter Keating Jr., who competes regularly on the PGA of Canada / Manitoba Zone tournament circuit, missed the match play cut by only one stroke after carding rounds of 72 and 77.

Four Manitoba pros travelled to Bermuda in late October to compete in the Nike PGA Team Championship.

Carman's Dean North and Assiniboine's Glen Mills made up one two-man team, while Glendale's Andrew Steep and Thunder Bay's Walter Keating Jr. formed the other. Both teams punched their tickets to the event through a qualifier at Rossmere Country Club in early July.

North and Mills tied for 19th and earned $1,060 in Bermuda during the three day event, which consisted of four ball, foursome and scramble competitions. Steep and Keating, meanwhile, tied for 35th among the 47 competing teams and took home $585.

* * *

Derrik Goodwin tied for 34th at the PGA Assistants Championship of Canada tournament at the Lora Bay Golf Club in Thornbury, Ont., last September.

Goodwin, who is an assistant at St. Charles Country Club, shot 73-79-74 for a 10-over-par total of 226.

Goodwin pocketed $307.50.
